

Where are my air filters?

You can find them in two places.

At your HVAC system

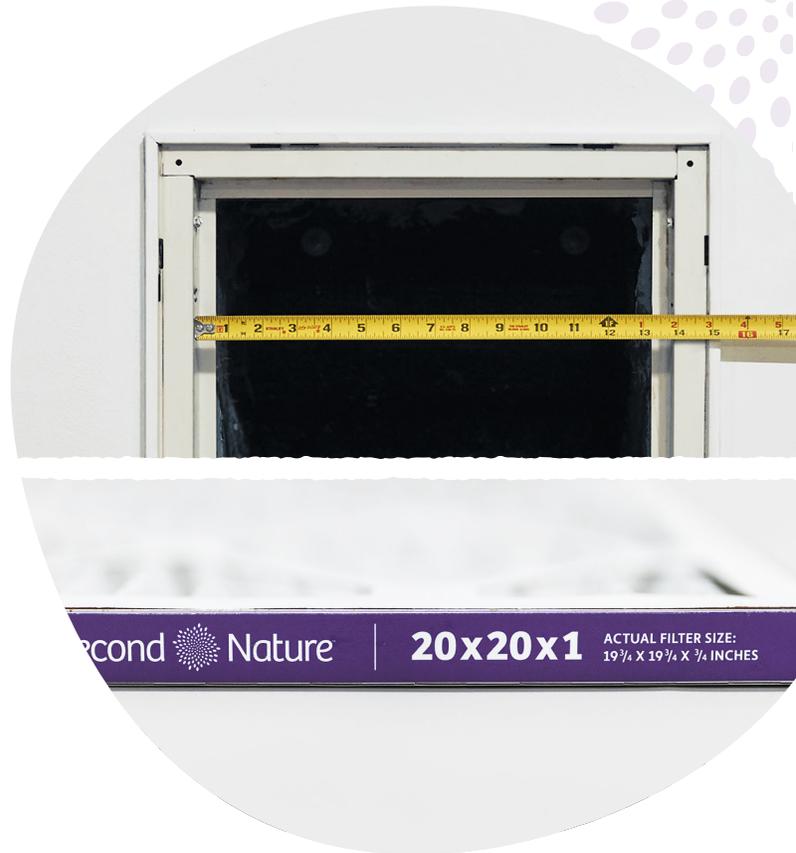

In your air return vents

How do I know what size filter I need?

It's super simple.

If you already have an air filter, the size is located on one of the frame's edges.

You can also measure the length and width of the air intake opening to get your filter size. Just round up to the nearest inch and you're good to go.

What do I do with this info?

Submit your filter size as requested by your Property Manager.

Anything else?

Sure! Now you can kick back and watch the right size filters show up right on schedule. It's off of your to-do list forever.
